The dedication of the 1968 ECHO is to the man who, with his inexhaustible energy, recognizes and strives to fulfill the demands of a growing college, who, because of his modern ideas, gives enthusiasm to campus life and the learning process, who, in his very personable way, represents the respected guiding voice of Monticello . . .

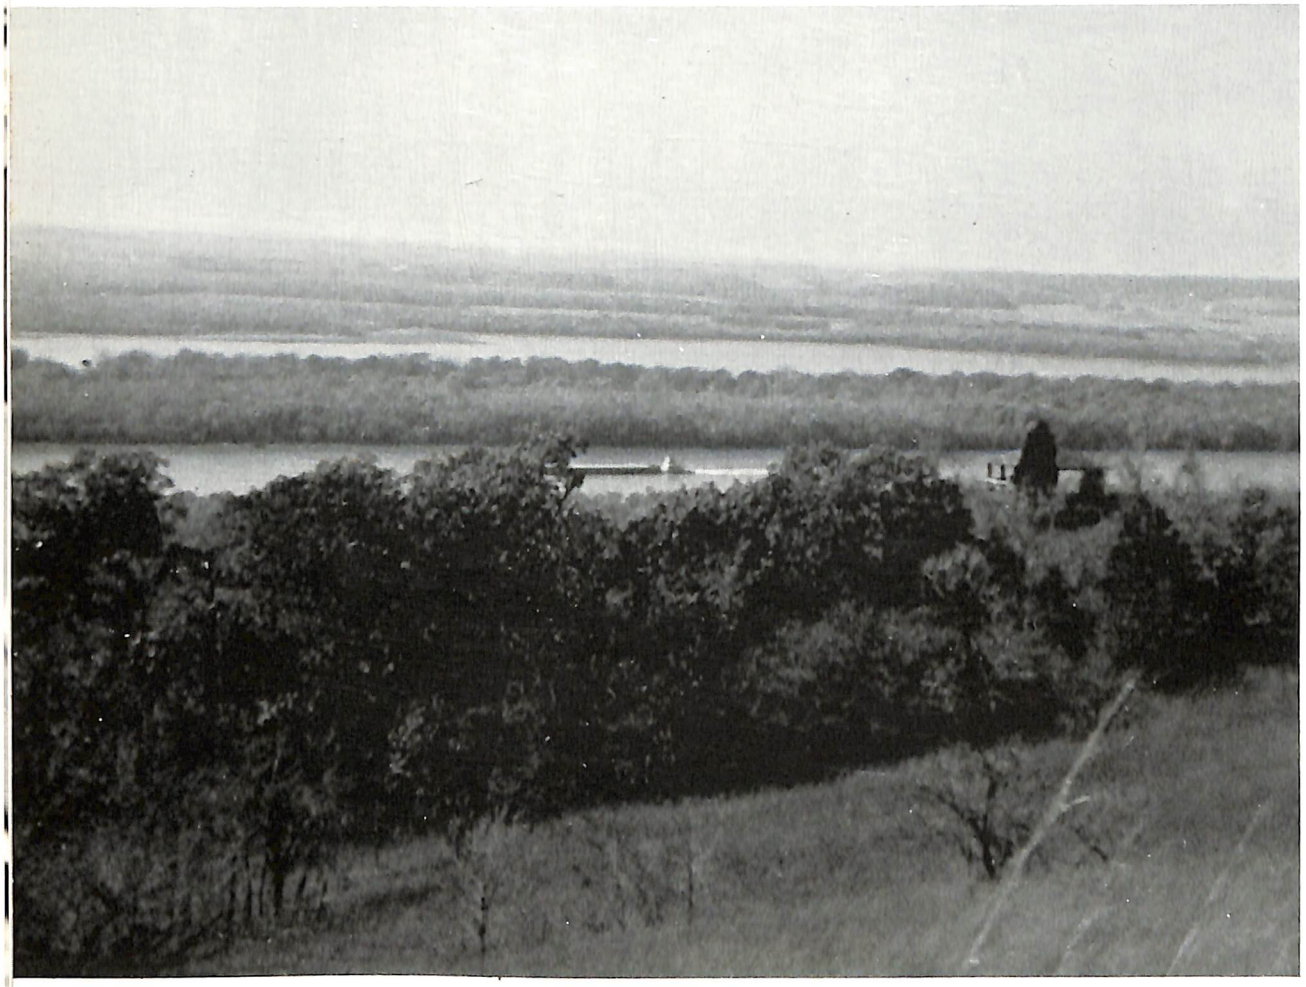
DR. GAIL MYERS

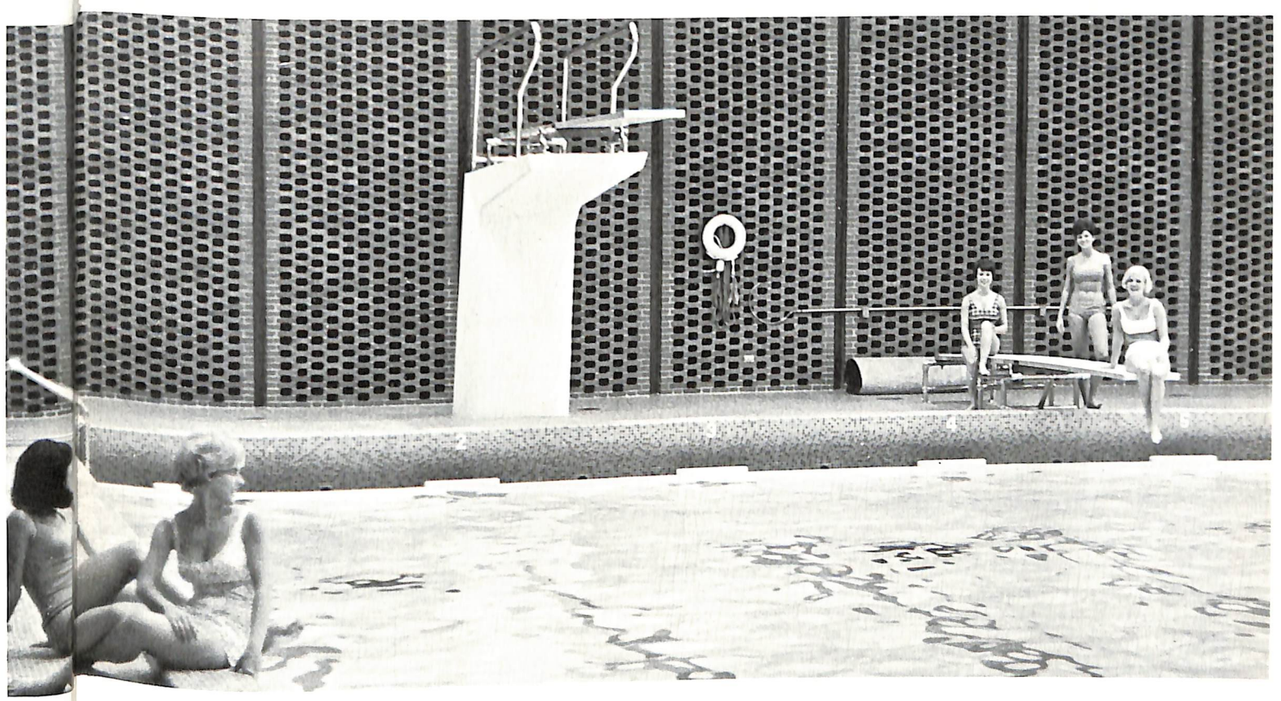
THE COLLEGE



In the distance sounds the Mississippi River traffic above the life of downtown Alton, Illinois.

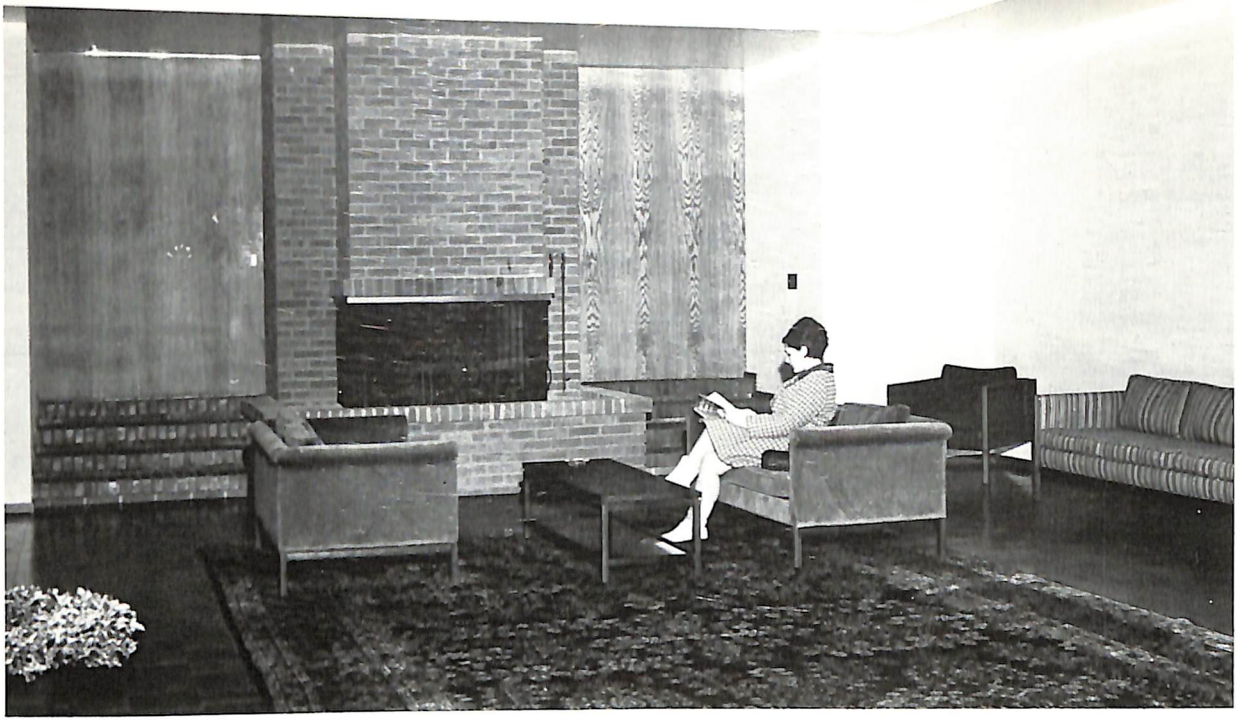
Set in an atmosphere of calm are the PRAISE ANGEL WINDOW highlighting the LIBRARY and the CHAPEL.

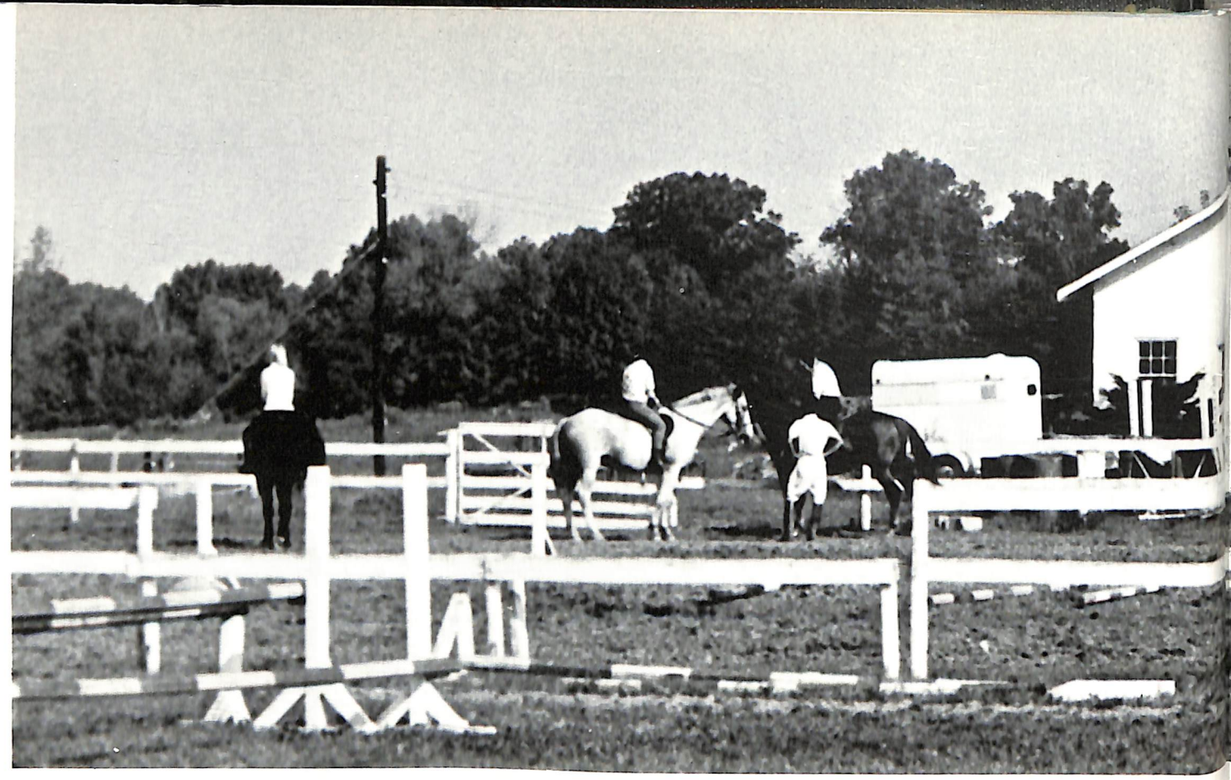
HATHEWAY HALL gives pleasure through its facilities: the Olympic POOL, the AUDITORIUM, and the GYMNASIUM.

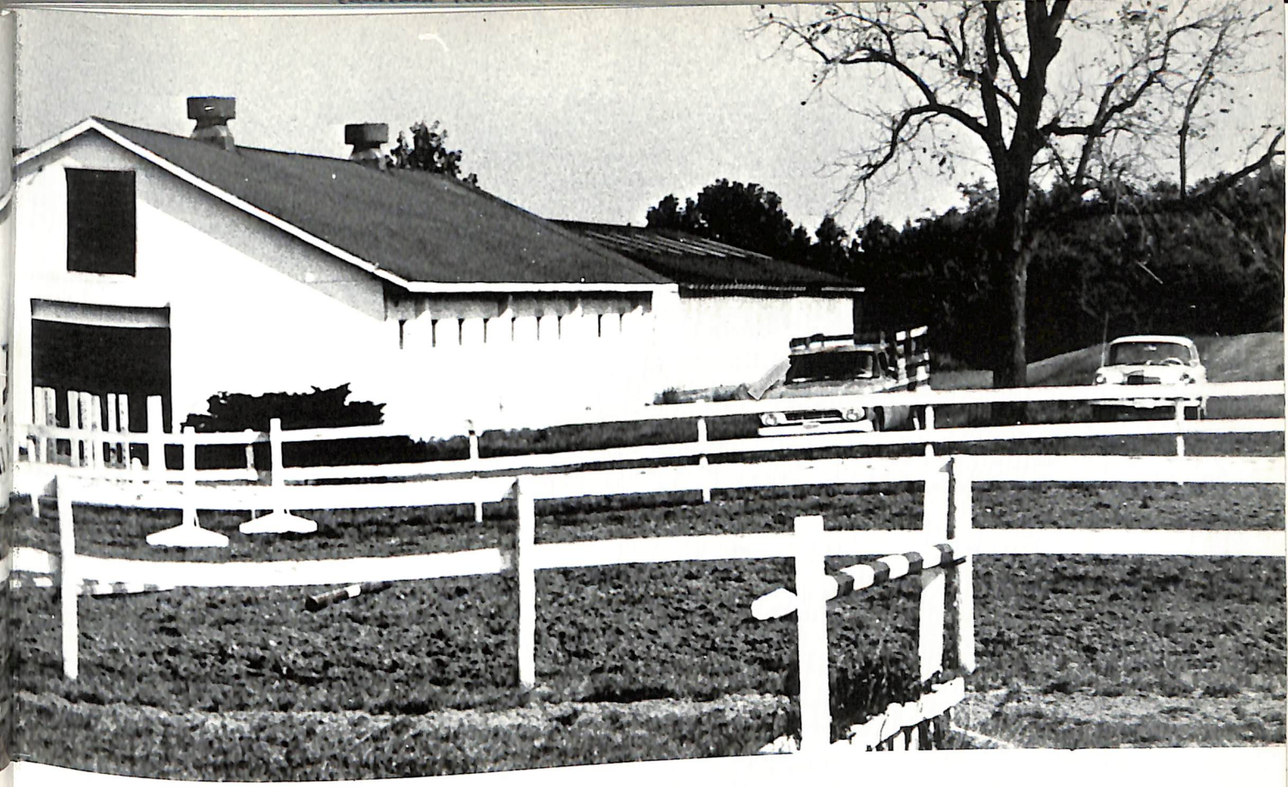


CALDWELL HALL, the center of Monticello traffic, surrounds FOUNTAIN COURT and contains the ALUM ROOMS.

On South Campus are located HASKELL HOUSE and ERICKSON HALL, accommodations for the experience of dormitory life.







Removed from the busy central campus, the HIGHLANDS and the CABIN offer recreation, relaxation, and enjoyment.

ALDEN HOUSE, GILMAN, the Elm Street residences, and The EVERGREENS house students, faculty, and the President.

ADMINISTRATION

President G. E. Myers, B.A., M.A., State University of Iowa, Ph. D., University of Denver

Dr. Myers assists with Freshman Orientation Picnic.

Mrs. Becky VanAusdoll, Secretary, Office of the President

Interesting as it is, this ECHO cannot include all the excitement of the events of this past year. Yet, it is an excellent pictorial record of buildings, of classes, of traditional observances to be remembered in the years to come.

Beautiful as it is, this ECHO cannot describe the warmth of our friendships. Yet, it will evoke memories of shared joys and a deep affection for one another and for Monticello.

Put together creatively and sensitively, this ECHO is a paper-and-ink diary not of the days and the weeks, but of the people with whom we shared this time—people who have influenced us for the rest of our lives during this—our wonderful year together.

DAVID W. GEILEN
Instructor
B.A., Carleton College
M.A., Pennsylvania State University

. . . From the informality of a Senior English Honors class discussing Milton's "Paradise Lost" while munching on the forbidden fruit to the formality of a Freshman Composition class.

Developing proficiency in communication in the Language-Arts field is one of the aims of the English Department. It also helps to provide students with practical rhetorical tools and literary exempla in the exciting search for awareness of man's fundamental worth and dignity, and of his ultimate place in a universe that appears absurd, uncaring, and, at times, overwhelming.

Foreign Language Aims At Appreciation

PAUL J. COOKE (Dr.), Chairman

B.S., B.A., Instituto Segunda Ensenaza, Habana, Cuba

DARINKA ARANDJELOVIC
Instructor
B.A., University of Snoplje, Yugoslavia

¿ Habla usted español? . . . Oops, sorry Mrs. Vidic.

Preparing students for fruitful participation in our relations with foreign countries by acquiring a broad knowledge of their language and culture is one way the Foreign Language Department aims at appreciation of languages. Drilling aloud in class and weekly visits to the language laboratory help students pick up a natural accent in either French, Spanish, or German.

Sally Sizer signs up for the French Club, a new addition this year.

Fine Arts Strives For Creativity
